

Certification in Functional Manual Therapy™

The Directors and Faculty of the Institute of Physical Art and the CFMT™ Board of Directors hold to the philosophy that Physical Therapists, through a series of integrated continuing education courses, can achieve a predetermined clinical competency level. This competency level should reflect both the system in which they train as well as their own creativity in applying the art of physical therapy to any type of patient population.

The FMT™ Board utilizes the process of certification to identify Physical Therapists competent in the didactic and clinical philosophies, principals, and procedures of Functional Manual Therapy as taught through the IPA and CrunKeyser. Certification week is always scheduled to begin on the first Monday in August in Steamboat Springs, Colorado and last six days (through Saturday evening).

Each class is limited to 32 participants and there is often a two to three year wait list.

PREREQUISITES

The FMT Certification requires completion of the following courses six months prior to CFMT week:

CFS, PNF, FM I, CBI, FMLT, FMLE, FMUE, FMUT, Functional GAIT and FMT™ Foundations

FUNCTIONAL GAIT (NOTE: You are not tested on this material, but it ensures that you are exposed to the interregional dependency concepts referenced in the testing).

The CFMT EXAM is comprised of seven oral practical and written exams which cover the material of the required course work. The exams are divided as follows:

PNF, FMI, CFS, CBI and Foundations; Each of these courses have a dedicated oral practical and written exam.

FMUT, FMUE: One written and oral practical for upper quadrant.

FMLT, FMLE: One written and oral practical for lower quadrant.

PREPARATION

Please note that most PTs who successfully pass CFMT have taken the required courses twice and participated as a lab assistant in most courses. The CFMT Board strongly recommends that you retake or lab assist any course that you have not attended within the past 2 years as the testing will cover current material taught within a year of the exam. In addition, most candidates rent the DVD package of recently recorded courses for further in-depth studying that is available to registered CFMT candidates only (once paid in full).

CFMT WEEK SCHEDULE AND FORMAT

The CFMT™ review/certification is conducted over a six-day period. Monday through Thursday are dedicated to review. These review sessions will highlight the key concepts of each course and allow for specific lab practice of some techniques. At the end of the Thursday morning review session, there will be a hosted lunch and a panel discussion with all CFMT Board members to address any questions related to the FMT material or the testing procedures. Friday and Saturday are devoted to written and oral/practical testing. There will be two social gatherings during the week. ONE, on the Sunday prior to the beginning of review in which all candidates will meet the IPA Staff and the Johnson's and pick up their welcome packets and TWO, at the end of the week on Saturday night to relax and enjoy the new friendships and professional bonds developed during the week.

NOTE: Distinction and Honors may be awarded only to those achieving the qualifying score during the initial exam and not requiring any retakes.

It is a firm policy of the IPA that strict confidentiality is observed regarding all test scores. Only lists of those candidates that successfully complete the exam will be made public.
